Response to Arguments

1. In view of the Appeal Brief filed on November 2nd, 2004, PROSECUTION IS HEREBY REOPENED. A new ground of rejection is set forth below.

To avoid abandonment of the application, appellant must exercise one of the following two options:

- (1) file a reply under 37 CFR 1.111 (if this Office action is non-final) or a reply under 37 CFR 1.113 (if this Office action is final); or,
- (2) request reinstatement of the appeal.

If reinstatement of the appeal is requested, such request must be accompanied by a supplemental appeal brief, but no new amendments, affidavits (37 CFR 1.130, 1.131 or 1.132) or other evidence are permitted. See 37 CFR 1.193(b)(2).

2. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-27 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which the subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 1-27 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Brown et al. (U.S. Patent No. 2004/0010724) in view of Yamada (U.S. Patent No. 6,336,100).

Art Unit: 3621

5. As per claims 1, 6, 11, 16, 20 and 24, Brown et al. teaches an inventive concept using such personal authentication information for authenticating a member as member identification information and a password, comprising registration unit for registering physical characteristics of each the member in advance; and processing unit responsive to application of physical characteristics by a purchaser for comparing the applied physical characteristic information and the physical characteristic information registered at the registration unit to conduct authentication and determining whether connection is allowed or not according to authentication results (see abstract, paragraphs 0023, 0024, 0032, claims 1, 15, 17, 21, 23). Brown et al. fails to teach an inventive concept of a mail-order system for members by which a member purchases commodities by accessing a mail-order site side server through a network. However, Yamada teaches an inventive concept of a mail-order system for members by which a member purchases commodities by accessing a mail-order site side server through a network (see fig 1-3, column 1 lines 19-45). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify Brown et al's inventive concept to include Yamada concept of a mail-order system for members by which a member purchases commodities by accessing a mail-order site side server through a network because this would have provided a system for shopping wherein customer can order merchandise and designate addresses or places where the good or merchandise can be delivered.

6. As per claims 2, 7, 12, Brown et al. teaches an inventive concept further comprising a server for members for authenticating the member, wherein the registration unit and the processing unit are provided at the server for members (see abstract, paragraphs 0023, 0024, 0032, claims 1, 15, 17, 21, 23).

7. As per claims 3, 8, 13, 17, 21 and 25, Brown et al. teaches an inventive concept further comprising unit for enciphering the personal authentication information and the physical characteristic information so as to be in correlation with each other and registering the enciphered information at the registration unit, and reading and decoding the information enciphered (see abstract, paragraphs 0023, 0024, 0032, claims 1, 15, 17, 21, 23).

8. As per claims 4, 9, 14, 18, 22 and 26, Brown et al. teaches an inventive concept further comprising unit for enciphering the personal authentication information and the physical characteristic information so as to be in correlation with each other and registering the enciphered information at the registration unit, and reading and decoding the information enciphered, wherein the decoding unit decodes the personal authentication information when results of authentication of a purchaser's physical characteristics applied at the purchase of a commodity and the registered physical characteristics coincide with each other (see abstract, paragraphs 0023, 0024, 0032, claims 1, 15, 17, 21, 23).

9. As per claims 5, 10, 15, 19, 23 and 27, Brown et al. teaches an inventive concept further comprising unit for enciphering the personal authentication information and the physical characteristic information so as to be in correlation with each other and registering the enciphered information at the registration unit, and reading and decoding the information enciphered, wherein the decoding unit decodes the personal authentication information when results of authentication of a purchaser's physical characteristics applied at the purchase of a commodity and the registered physical characteristics coincide with each other, and the processing unit transmits the personal authentication information decoded to the mail-order site side server (see abstract, paragraphs 0023, 0024, 0032, claims 1, 15, 17, 21, 23).
